

Questions I Ask Myself

Hoy Y Ng

What kind of weather do I like?

I like sunny days the most because they make me feel bright and they can always delight me.

Do I hate anyone?

I have nothing to hate and nobody to hate. Hatred can only hurt me so I always remind myself not to hate anyone or anything.

Do I satisfy with myself so far?

No, I do not. I know I could do better if I tried harder. And I'm getting lazier. I have been losing my enthusiasm as I grew older. This is why I'm still in this remedial English course. I gave up easily and I couldn't stick to anything I do.

Looking back, have I regret anything I do?

No. There was nothing to regret. And I don't want to waste my time by regretting. I rather spend my time looking forward to my future and improving myself.

Have I done anything wrong?

Yes, I've done many things wrong, but who don't make? When I do make a mistake, I try to correct it.

How do I cheer myself up?

Whenever I'm forced to do something I dislike, I tell myself to do it willingly and happily because no matter how unhappy I'm, I still have to do it. Sometimes I sing to cheer myself up.

* * *

Number of errors with verbs: 11

(Two or more errors in a single verb phrase may count as one (1) error.)