

What Do Children Really Need?

Irina Alvarez

Many parents want the best for their children. They want their children to be the best. Many parents work every day to give their children the best education, the best clothes, and the best things.

Many children, on the other hand, want only to enjoy life. They want to play with their friends. They don't want to study. They don't want to do anything. But they still want that their parents give them everything that they need.

Always children don't need the best clothes, the best toys or the best things. Sometimes they need their parents to spend more time with them. Parents need to be their children's friends.

I have a father but he has never felt like a 'friend'. With him never I have had good communication and communication is important because when it is good, the relationship is good. Even now never I talk with my father. He is the same way with my brothers and my sisters.

When my siblings and I were younger, always my father busy at work. He never had time to spend with us. As a child, I had many things, but not that.

In this day and age, parents have to learn about their children, and children have to learn about their parents. The most important thing we can do as parents is to communicate and spend time with our children. .

* * *

This essay contains errors in sentence structure